Name: $\qquad$

Reading the Weather

Current Conditions

| $-2^{\circ} \mathrm{C}$ | Observed at: The Suncor Energy Fluvarium  Date: Monday, February 21, 2011 |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
|  | Condition: Cloudy  Pressure: 99.8 kpa  Visibility: 24 km | Temperature: $-2^{\circ} \mathrm{C}$  Humidity: $75 \%$  Wind:  Windchill: 55 gust $-11^{\circ} \mathrm{C}$ |

Forecast

| Mon | Tue | Wed | Thu | Fri | Sat | Sun |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |

Information from the Environmental Canada Website

Today (Monday)

Cloudy. 40 percent chance of flurries this evening. Wind northwest $40 \mathrm{~km} / \mathrm{h}$ gusting to 60 becoming west 20 overnight.

Tuesday

Cloudy. 60 percent chance of flurries in the morning. Periods of snow beginning in the afternoon. Amount 2 to 4 cm . Wind west $20 \mathrm{~km} / \mathrm{h}$ becoming northeast 20 in the afternoon.

Wednesday

Flurries.
Thursday
A mix of sun and clouds.

Friday

A mix of sun and clouds.

Saturday

Cloudy with 60 percent chance of flurries.
Sunday
Cloudy with 40 percent chance of flurries. Windy.

Name: $\qquad$ Date: $\qquad$

Questions

1. Circle all the days that will have sun and cloud weather:

Monday Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Friday Saturday Sunday
2. Circle all the days that will have snowy weather (flurries):

Monday Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Friday Saturday Sunday
3. What is the current temperature today? $\qquad$
4. What is the current wind direction today? $\qquad$
5. What is the current wind speed today? $\qquad$
6. What is the current pressure today? $\qquad$
7. Using graph paper make a graph of the high temperatures for the week (numbers in red). Use temperature as your Y -axis and days of the week for your X-axis. Don't forget to properly label your graph.
8. What is the highest temperature of the week? $\qquad$
9. What is the lowest temperature of the week? $\qquad$
10. Calculate the average temperature for the week: $\qquad$
Draw a line on your graph indicating the average temperature for the week.

